In order to officially compete in a competition, participants must be at least 8 years old; however children between the ages of 5 and 7 years old can participate in training. Our programs give our athletes continuing opportunities to develop physical fitness, demonstrate courage, experience joy and participate in the sharing of gifts, skills, and friendship with their families, other athletes and the community. Currently in Nevada, we provide opportunities to over 3750 children and adults in 9 different sports. Special Olympics is free to all athletes.

Athlete Information Guide

What is Special Olympics?

Special Olympics is a non-profit organization dedicated to providing year-round sports training and athletic competition in a variety of Olympic-type sports for individuals with intellectual disabilities by giving them continuing opportunities to develop physical fitness, demonstrate courage, experience joy and participate in a sharing of gifts, skills, and friendship with their families, other Special Olympics athletes and the community.

The Special Olympics Athlete Oath

Inspired by the gladiators from ancient Rome, Eunice Kennedy Shriver brought these words to the first Special Olympics Games, "Let me win. But if I cannot win, let me be brave in the attempt." This oath continues to be recited by Special Olympics athletes before competitions as they exude bravery and inspire greatness.

Why Special Olympics?

Children and adults with intellectual disabilities who participate in Special Olympics develop improved physical fitness and motor skills, greater self-confidence and a more positive self-image. They grow mentally and socially and, through their activities, exhibit boundless courage and enthusiasm, enjoy the rewards of friendship and ultimately discover they can be active and contributing members of their communities.

What sports are offered at Special Olympics?

Special Olympics offers 9 different sports: Aquatics, Basketball, Bocce, Bowling, Golf, Power lifting, Soccer, Softball, and Track & Field. Some sports may not be offered in all counties based on athlete interest and facility availability.

Does Special Olympics offer programs for athletes of all levels and abilities?

Special Olympics prides itself on providing programs for all skill levels. We create competition environments based on each athlete's abilities by creating competition groups based on preliminary scores and times. This ensures that athletes compete based on skill, age and gender.

Who is eligible to participate in Special Olympics

Special Olympics is open to every person with an intellectual disability regardless of the level/degree of that person's disability and whether or not that person also has other mental/physical disabilities.

My athlete would like to participate in more than one sport per season, is that okay?

Sure! Athletes can attend practices for as many different sports as their schedules will allow.

Are there any age restrictions?

In order to officially compete at a sports competition, athletes must be at least 8 years old. However, athletes between 5-7 years of age can come out for practices. There is no "cap" on how old an athlete can be. We have some very active athletes who are in their 50's and 60's and are still going strong into their 70's!

Does it cost to participate in Special Olympics?

No!! Special Olympics athletes do not pay any fees to participate. Special Olympics is able to provide training and competitions opportunities for free, thanks to the generous support of individuals, organizations and corporations in our communities. Special Olympics receives no federal or state funding of any kind. Community support for our fundraising efforts is critical to the continued success of our Special Olympics programs.

My athlete doesn't know how to play the sport that they are interested in. Can they still participate?

Yes, Special Olympics firmly believes that everyone can benefit from being part of a team, no matter what the skill level may be. Our coaches and volunteers will work with your athlete to teach them the skills they need in order to participate in their sport of choice.

What is the dress code at practices?

Athletes should wear appropriate athletic attire to sport trainings. Usually, this includes athletic shoes with non-marking soles, short or sweats and a t-shirt. Swimmers must wear a swimsuit and provide a towel. Athletes who are not dressed appropriately will be asked to spectate.
